Rehrig Pacific Company

Now in our 75th year of business, Rehrig Pacific is America's leading crate and container manufacturer. We offer a full line of support services, including factory direct sales, and nine regional manufacturing plants strategically located across the country to process and deliver your rush orders 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

A large part of Rehrig Pacific's success is due to our tradition of innovation and our deep commitment to quality. Over half of Rehrig Pacific's sales revenue is generated from products less than five years old. We will continue to respond to your changing needs with a broad range of unique solutions to your shipping problems.

Rehrig Pacific adheres to the Total Quality Management approach to manufacturing. The centerpiece of this approach is employee involvement and statistical process control. Our products are manufactured in company owned plants by Rehrig Pacific employees who are dedicated to producing quality products for our customers.
